

1. Write a blog on difference between document & window objects

- The window object is simply like the root of them all to which document and screen are properties of. The screen is just the user display area.
- Document is the DOM containing all html elements, their classes and attributes.